

S. Hallet, FishPathogens.net

INVASIVE

Whirling disease

Myxobolus cerebralis

- I am a disease that affects juvenile salmonid fish by infesting their skin.
- I cause fish to have a bent and blackened tail, which causes them to swim in whirling pattern.
- I can be spread by moving water or mud and once I am in a waterbody, I am very hard to get rid of.